

Part I. ER Modelling

(Optional) Explanation

In the assignment specification, there was no information of who executes the Tests and provides the Test Event Information. It can be assumed that Technicians are the ones who does the above, but I have not included the relationships between the entities.

Assuming that there is an actual relationship between the relationship/entity, then there would be a relationship between the Technicians entity and the Test entity, with the relationship being “runs” or “executes” for example (also a line between test event information and technicians). Depending on the relationship, different type lines will be used to represent it.